

Good day!

I am a new subscriber to XM radio and have heard about efforts being taken in Washington to limit the content of satellite radio. This new medium is wonderful and is certainly a better choice than traditional broadcast radio. Since I subscribe to it, I do not believe that there should be any action taken to limit the content of the service. I liken this medium to cable TV and regular, broadcast TV. People pay for cable to obtain better choices and uses from their devices. The same can be said about satellite radio. I subscribe to it for more and better choices than I can get without it. I do not want any group, including the National Association of Broadcasters, to have influence over the choices that I have.

If you have any questions, please let me know. Thanks!
